ABOUT ME

I'm a Speaker, Facilitator, Rapid Transformational Therapist and Confidence Coach. Much of my work falls under gender and BAME/BIPOC diversity initiatives where I speak and teach on topics including imposter syndrome, cultural competence, wellbeing and inclusion. I've worked with companies in the UK, Europe, Africa, North America and the Asia Pacific region; delivering training to attendees in over 25 countries within sectors including beauty, tech, healthcare and education.

I also support individuals to get to the next stage of their life and/or career by providing space for clarity, self exploration, accountability and healing. I work with women and people in historically marginalised groups. My previous career was in education and charity leadership.

SPEAKING TOPICS INCLUDE:

- * Understanding microaggressions
- * The journey from bystander to ally
- * Saying "no" to imposter syndrome
- * Challenging bias in yourself and others
- * Creating a self-care plan

Optimus COACH ACADEMY

"Yasmina was the obvious choice for me when we were looking to run a workshop on diversity - the workshop was delivered with passion and enthusiasm and her delivery style was inclusive and thought provoking. Yasmina knows her content well and creates a safe space for people to share as well as challenging people to think and be different."
